DELTA INVESTS IN A ROAD INFRASTRUCTURE PROJECT IN BULAWAYO

SUPPORTING LOCAL COMMUNITIES

Delta Corporation, a significant contributor to the Zimbabwean economy, recently invested in over $260,000 towards the upgrade of a road junction that links its Fairbridge Chibuku Super plant with the major Harare to Bulawayo highway.

The upgrading of the Chibuku Super plant at Fairbridge in 2016, has given rise to an increase of volume of traffic to and from the plant particularly the heavy motor vehicles that ferry raw materials and finished product. It became necessary to improve the safety of traffic entering the highway or maneuvering from the highway into the premises. This project was supported by the following key stakeholders.

- The Ministry of Roads
- Traffic Safety Board
- Ministry of Local Government
- Umguza RDC
- The DA's office
- The Provincial Administrator's office
- Minister of State Matabeleland North
- ZINARA
- Local communities (both business, residents, the uniformed officers camp) in the area.

This project fits well into Delta's integrated and sustainable development framework which was part of the Brewery redevelopment in 2015/16. The company invested in an effluent line to service the Umguza communities, the Fairbridge Police Camp and the Brewery at a cost of $2,7million. The water line supplying the Umguza community from Bulawayo City was also upgraded.

This accords well with the Company's thrust to improve livelihoods and help build communities.
