

COVID-19 SOCIAL SUPPORT GROUP

The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic is likely to impact on mental health particularly triggered by fear, isolation, job insecurity, uncertain future and other socio-economic factors. Furthermore, the Ministry of Health and Child Care announced a strategic plan to accelerate testing of people including those who interfaced with the community during the lockdown. In order to assist employees to cope with the stress and anxiety, Delta has some trained personnel who can provide virtual social support. These individuals will escalate cases that require specialist services. Therefore, should any employee require pre or post testing social support, please do not hesitate to contact any of the following:
